

Sandra Kemp, was born in Nassau, Bahamas and attended St. Andrews School. She completed high school at The Bishop Strachan School in Toronto Canada and later attended The University of Tampa in Tampa Florida.

After completing her university studies, Sandra returned to Nassau where her lifelong dream of becoming a Flight Attendant was fulfilled. She worked for International Air Bahama, which flew between Nassau, Bahamas and Luxembourg, Germany.

After many years of flying, she landed a new career in Real Estate as an Agent, which she enjoyed doing until she entered into the family's business of managing several locations of United Bookshop.

Sandra has been on the Board of the Cancer Society of The Bahamas for the past five years and devotes her time to Cancer in The Bahamas, where she is a Volunteer at the Oncology Department at the Princess Margaret Hospital.

She is married to Ian Kemp and they have two children and two amazing grandsons.
